Coach bush chosen by senior class as dedicatee

Students like senior Mark Saner soon discover that Mr. Bush is a receptive listener.

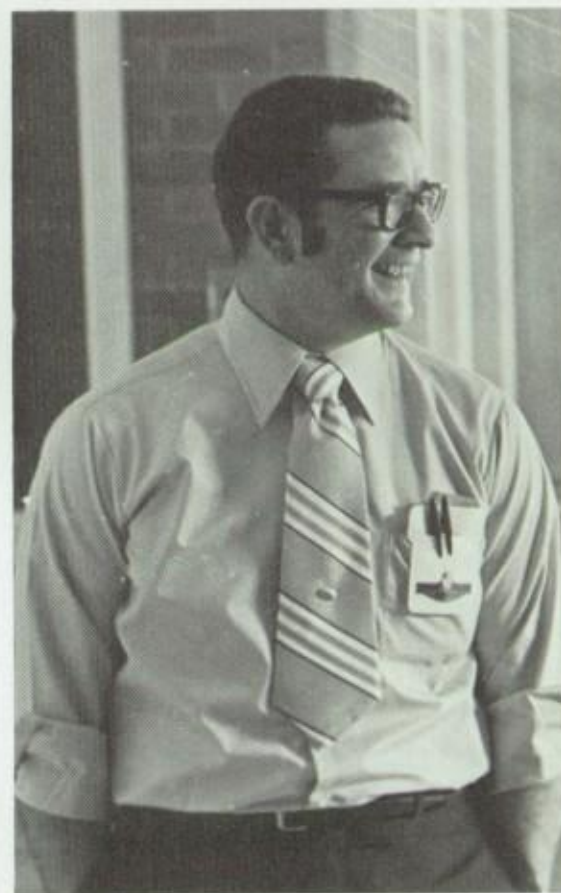

Because of his crowded schedule, Mr. Bush rarely has time to relax.

With the help of Mr. Brouse, Mr. Bush monitors the busy hall at noontime.

"The greater the obstacle the more glory in overcoming it." (Molière) Edward Bush has met many challenges in his twelve years at Ashland High. A world history teacher and football coach who has also assisted with the baseball team, he has made contacts with hundreds of students and athletes.

Facing obstacles has become a daily routine for this man. For those he has conquered, we, the Senior Class of 1972, are honored to give him a bit of deserved glory by dedicating this book to him.

It is difficult to dedicate an entire GUIDE to one person. However, Coach Bush has devoted so much of himself to AHS that he is exceptionally deserving.

the Challenge

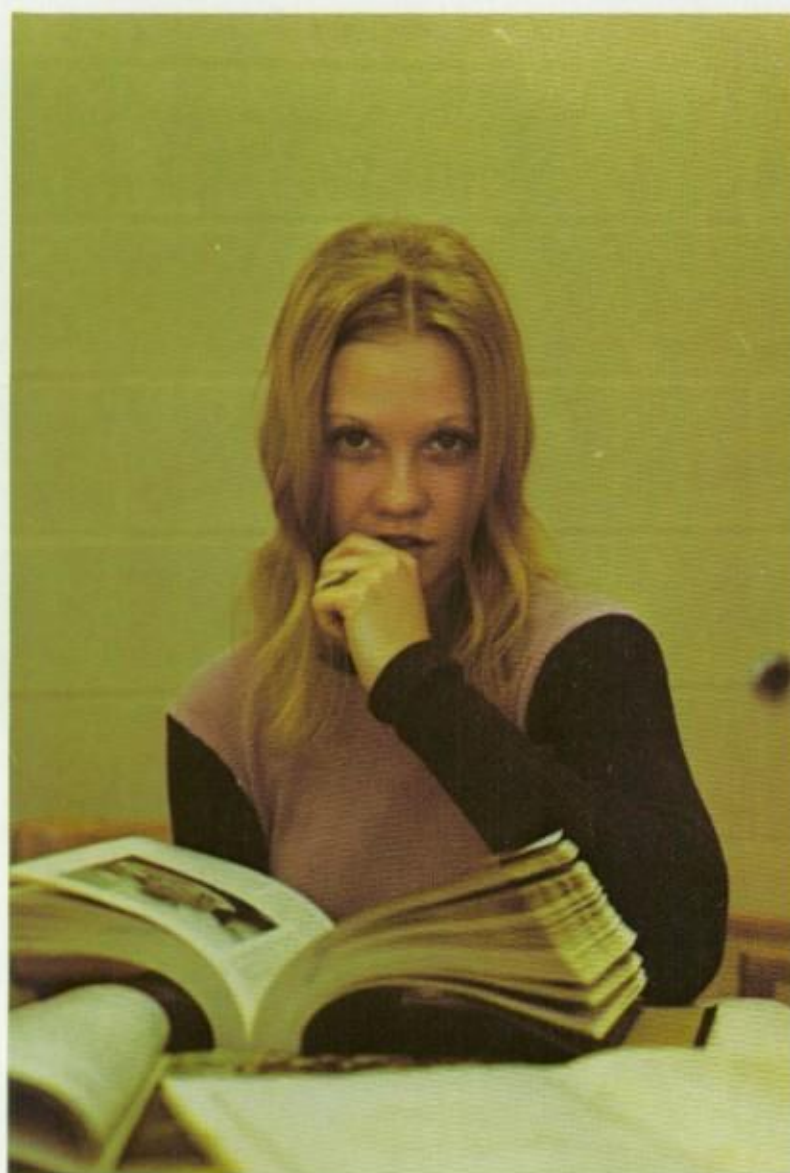

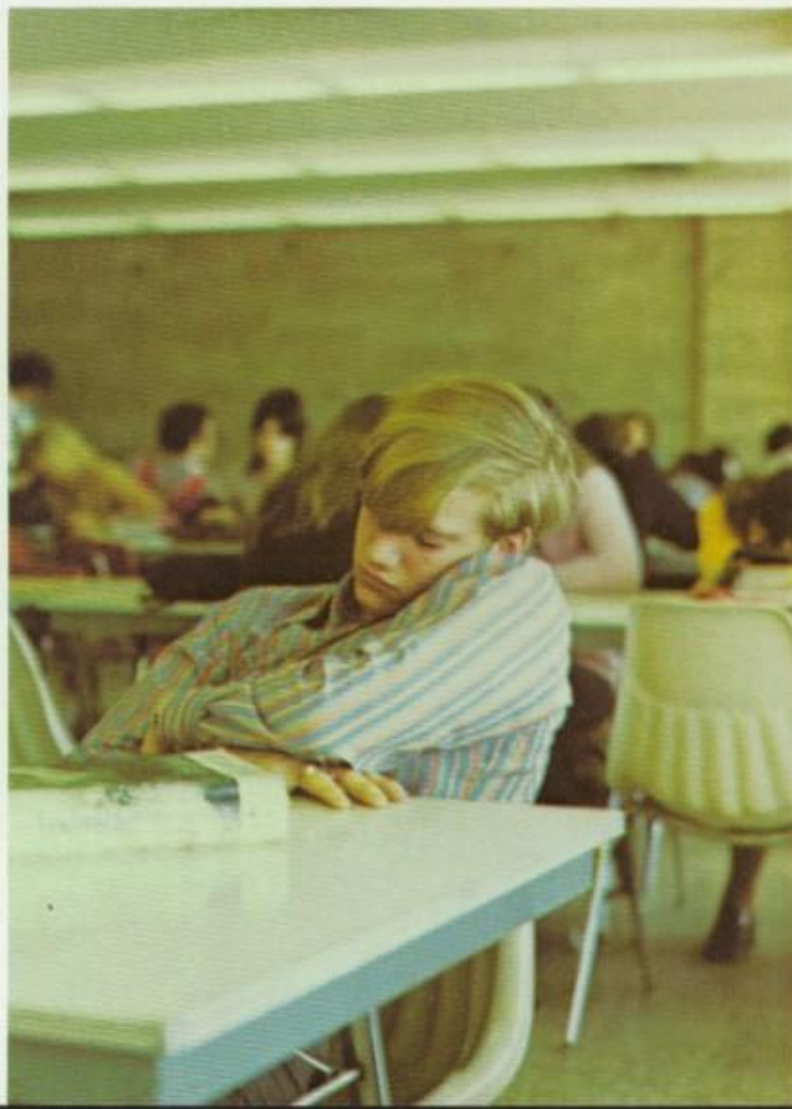

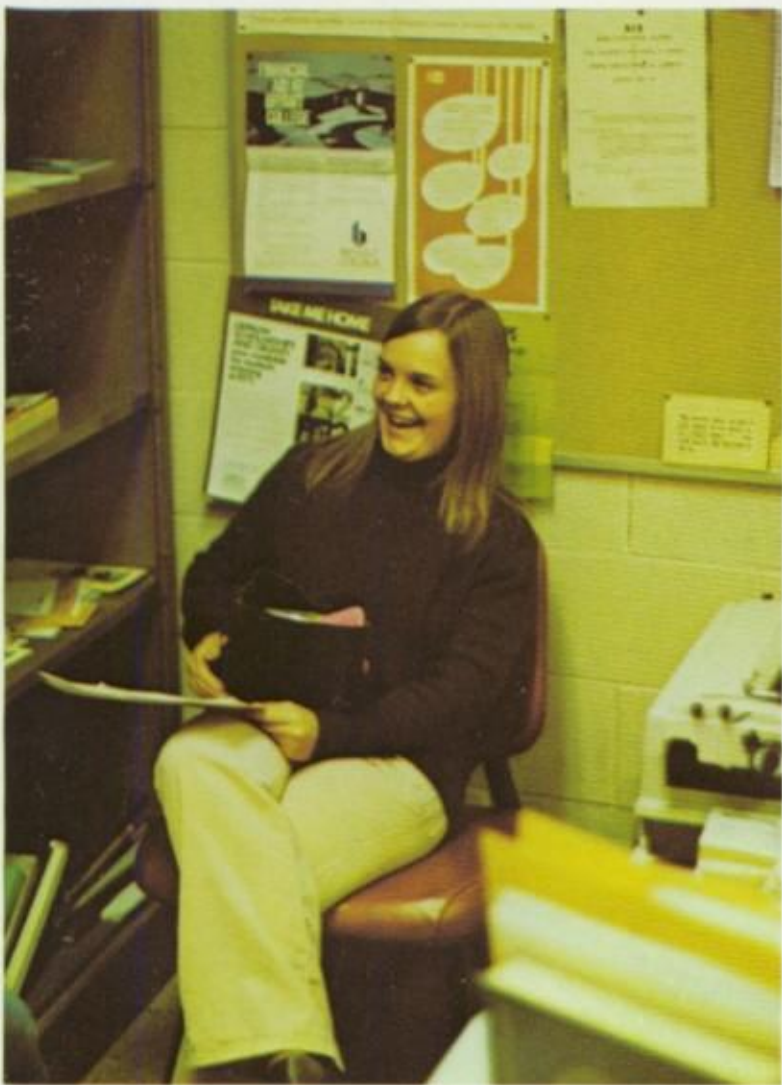

I am only one,
But still I am one.
I cannot do everything,
But still I can do something;
And because I cannot do everything,
I will not refuse to do the something that I can do.

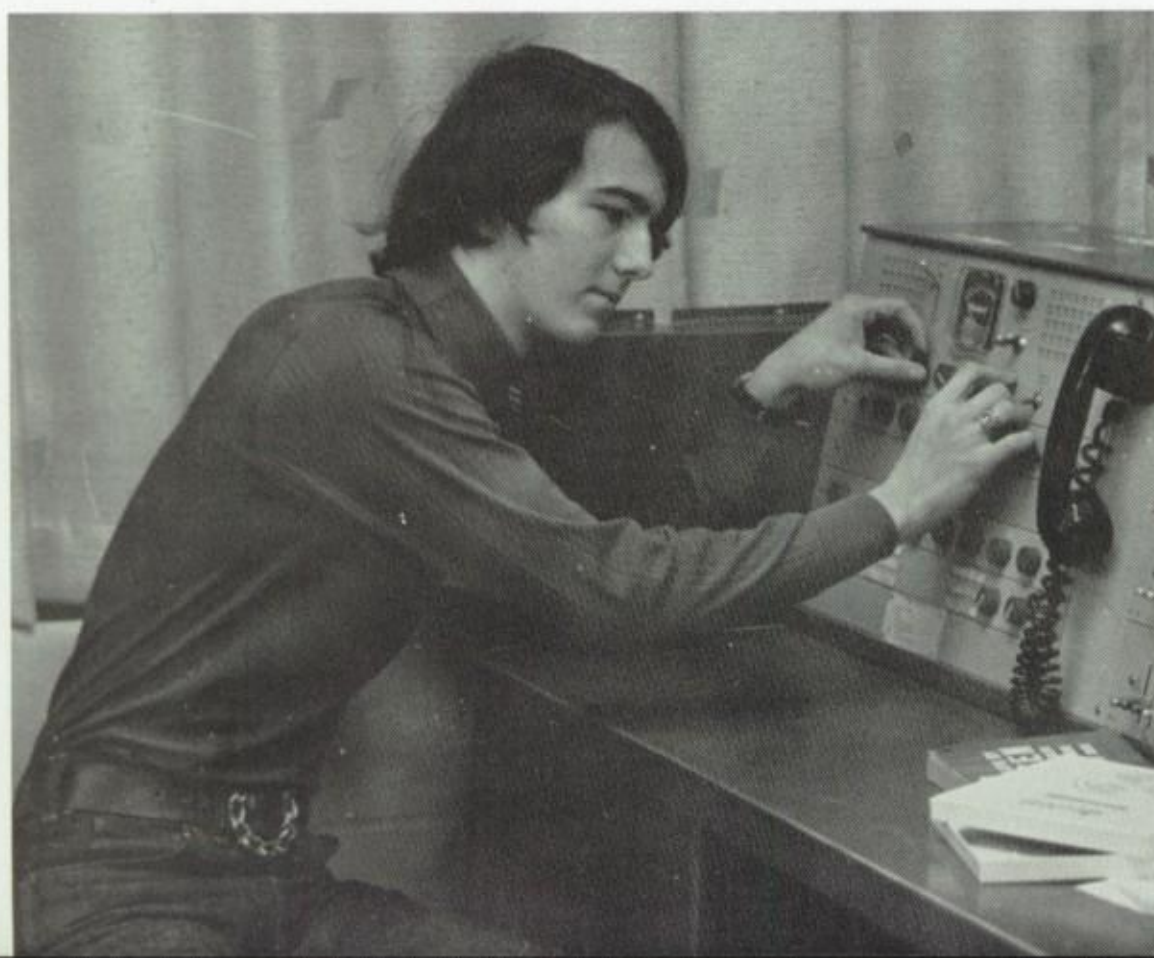

Edward Everett Hale

Creative self-expression is vital to seniors

Collette Buffington

Seniors find a good deal of their time occupied with "doing something different" as a means of creative self-expression.

This year's creativity ranged all the way from the shaved head of Chuck Carr (below) to the thespians united efforts in the Little Theater.

Each individual finds his own way of showing his creativity.

Guidance helps seniors make important decisions, reach goals

Senior Molly Connor discusses college choices with guidance counselor Mr. Elder.

Quite a few major decisions are made by students in their final year of high school. Decisions involve choices of careers and colleges.

The majority of this year's seniors didn't make these decisions completely on their own. They had help from the capable staff in the guidance office. Counselors Mr. Elder, Mrs. Smith, and Mr. Collins aided seniors in college selection.

They also helped the seniors not interested in attending four-year colleges to find technical schools or possible job opportunities.

When gym teachers have too much to do they rely on cadets to take over some responsibilities. These chosen senior students lead exercises, supervise trampoline activities and sports such as basketball, volleyball, soccer, and tennis.

In charge of taking shower numbers, some unfortunate cadets have been thrown into the showers by underclassmen on the last day of school. Such is the reward for success.

Today's educational opportunities offer students a broad field of electives from which to choose. In the music department, students may participate in orchestra, band, choir, and music theory. Private lessons offer chances for advancement.

Self-expression is important to teenagers, many of whom find music as an outlet, a key to understanding themselves.

Versatility in the art department gives the creative student a chance to "do his own thing."

Papier maché, pen and ink, oils, acrylics or lettering may be of interest to some. Others may find ceramics, woodcuts or mosaics more to their liking.

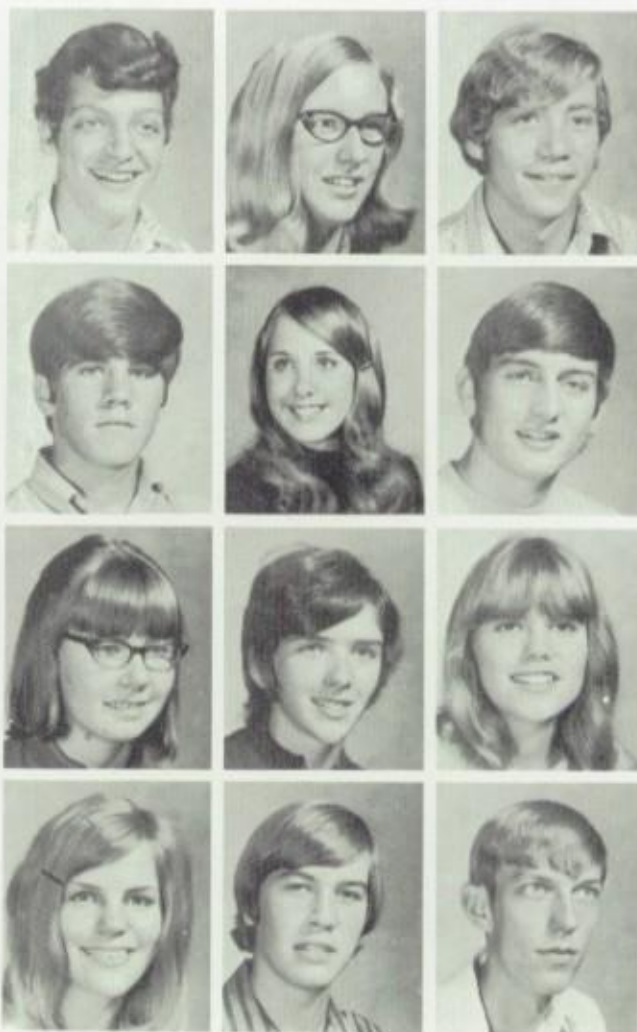

Each spring, art students participate in the Creative and Practical Arts Show, a display of the artwork done by students in Ashland's school system. Artwork may be sold at this show giving the student a chance to profit from his hobby.

Sophomore officers responsible for various class projects

Class officers are (STANDING) S. Boales, D. Smith, K. Parker, S. Coburn, (SEATED) E. Schlingman, D. Sprague. Not pictured — J. Buffington, C. Marchio.

The students who head the sophomore class spend their first year at the high school orienting their class to the new surroundings and situations.

During this time, the officers learn how to become responsible for their position.

Money-making projects such as bake sales helped the class this year build their treasury, most of which will be used for the prom next year.

Perhaps the most significant thing the sophomore class officers do is make the choice of style for the class rings.

One of many new experiences in the sophomore's year is gym class. Activities such as square dancing, tennis, golf, bowling, and basketball filled two periods every week for the energetic sophomores. Square dancing especially fascinated the students.

During the final weeks of school the campaign spirit runs high in the members of the junior and sophomore class.

The mock convention is an especially new experience for the sophomores. They eagerly run through their classes getting the necessary names for their petitions. Then, as the mock convention draws closer, the candidates prepare their speeches.

At the mock convention the candidates for future junior class president and vice-president present their speeches.

From these students the class then chooses their capable leaders for the next year.

Faculty

Fresh leaders initiate change

Mr. Roland Marquette left Malabar High to become principal at Ashland this year. Rex Smith and Everett DeVaul joined Sam Marchio as assistant principals.

Policy changes occurred in various areas. Weekly rap sessions improved student-faculty relations, and disciplinary problems such as skipping were dealt with more severely.

Board of Education. SEATED: Hugh Troth, Marshall Smith, Miss Jane Meuser. BACK ROW: Lionel Wells, Robert Valentine. ABSENT, Dr. E. F. Little.

A quiet moment finds Mr. Marquette reviewing the day's rush.

Athletic director Mr. DeVaul also is an assistant principal.

RIGHT: Assistant principal Mr. Smith works diligently on paperwork.

Dedicated leaders form reality from visions of future life

Special education instructor Mrs. Fritz helps a pupil learn the day's lesson.

Carefully grading special education papers for errors keeps Mr. Stineman busy.

The guidance department at AHS took on a sparkle with the addition of a female counselor, Mrs. Relda Smith.

Another difference was that students were assigned to guidance counselors according to the alphabet. Mr. Elder adopted A-H, Mrs. Smith, G-O, and Mr. Collins, P-Z.

This program means that students will from now on have the same counselor throughout high school, giving the counselors a chance to get to know them better.

Boy's phys. ed. teacher Mr. Brouse supervises the "Texas Star" closely.

This year the phys. ed. program at AHS met with a few changes. Gym became elective for seniors, and co-ed. classes prevailed at times.

Junior boys' gym classes were scheduled on the same days as soph. girls' classes, and junior girls were opposite soph. boys. This made square dancing easier for the sophomores as they had experienced partners.

Students seemed to approve of the innovations, and they are likely to continue in upcoming years.

of future life

Two programs which normally receive little attention are OWA and Senior Home Ec.

Occupational work adjustment, supervised by Mr. Malone, is a preparatory work program for sophomores. Students are paid, and do such things as sweep the halls.

This year, OWA involved about 30 students. In a district contest, Debbie Phillipps was chosen vice-president.

Senior Home Ec offers semester courses in cooking and family living for boys as well as girls. Cooking, taught by Mrs. West, concerns generally the same instruction as girls' cooking. Mrs. Ewing's family living class studies dating and marriage.

Sophomores watched a matinee performance of the Thespian play, Anne Frank, and a taping of Portrait of Jennie, (one of their class novels). Some of the classes conducted a "Jennie-lookalike" contest; Jackie Smeltzer was the overall winner.

Seniors saw Hamlet taped, and some of Mrs. Roland's pupils acted out scenes from the play in the Little Theater.

Library help is often needed in Mrs. Schmandt's speech and humanities classes.

One little-known but interesting subject is humanities, taught by Mrs. Schmandt. It involves the study of man through the ages, especially his literature, visual art, and music.

This year, the humanities classes were involved in such projects as a visit to a Pittsburgh art museum and a Gothic cathedral replica, and a Roman banquet.

In the sociology and psychology courses for seniors, Mr. Dienstberger's students learned more about themselves and others through "role-playing" or assuming the characters and actions of different stereotyped persons.

Other social studies subjects taught the history of man with the aid of maps and recently-acquired films.

Government teacher Mr. Ramage emphasizes a point concerning the city council.

Applied methods decipher numerical questions

A book rack serves as Mr. Thomas' desk as he listens to a geometry problem.

Laugh-provoking things sometimes happen in Mr. Jackson's geometry classes.

The various mysteries of angles receive careful attention from Mr. Kauffman.

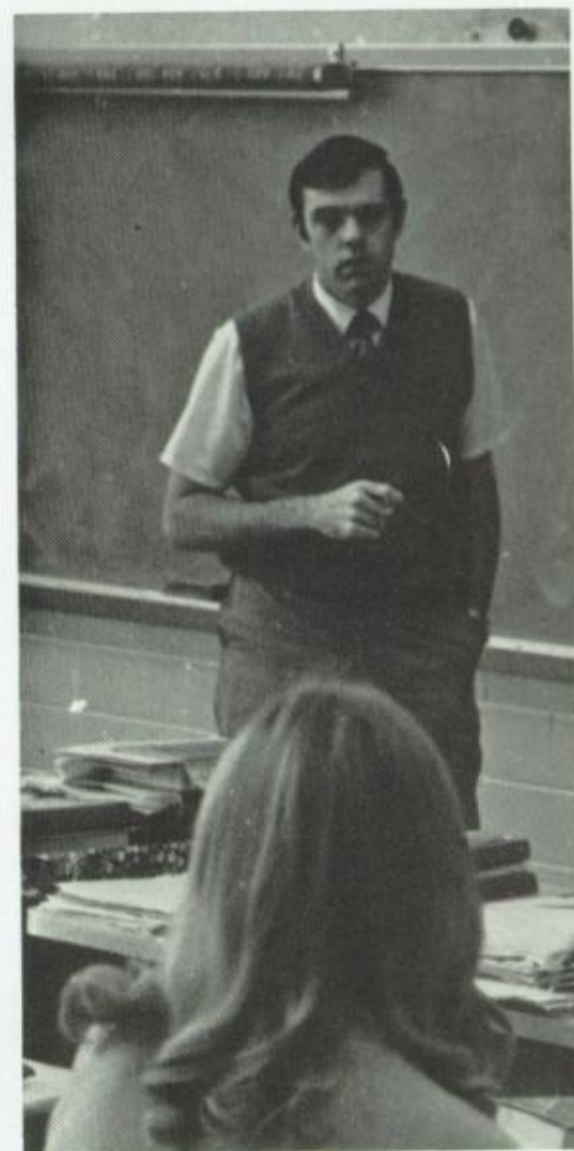

When Mr. Smalley becomes a student in algebra class, he learns a great deal.

One of the most challenging courses at AHS is Advanced Math. To take it, a student must have completed one year of geometry and two of algebra.

Pupils under the direction of Mr. Thomas, explores such topics as applied trigonometry, vectors and imaginary numbers.

While it is a bit hard to handle for some students, they find that it prepares them well for college math and do not regret taking it.

Under Mr. Otermat, advanced algebra students learn about adding fractions.

In a biology lecture, Mr. Ferguson illustrates a vital point on worm dissection.

During a lab session on the brain, Mr. Wilkes laughs at a student pun.

Advanced Biology is a course few students are aware of. Only those who have taken the science sequence of biology, chemistry, and physics are eligible to take it.

His 1969-1970 team was ranked eighth in the state. The high point of McDonald's four years was the overtime victory four years ago over Mansfield Senior for the sectional title.

This year's J.V. squad under Coach Ron Hostler displayed poise in several closely-fought contests and finished the season with a 9-9 record. This certainly is respectable considering that Ashland's Junior Varsity consisted of sophomores while the majority of the other teams were mainly juniors.

Before narrowly losing their last four games they had a six-game winning streak. Hostler stated that the highlight of the season was the 72-49 romp over Malabar.

Doug Semler and John Marquette led the scoring while Semler also led the rebounding.

John Humrichouser and Mark Saner led the team in batting with .370 and .350 respectively. Both were also named to the All-Conference team, John as an outfielder and Mark as short-stop.

Paper reports school news

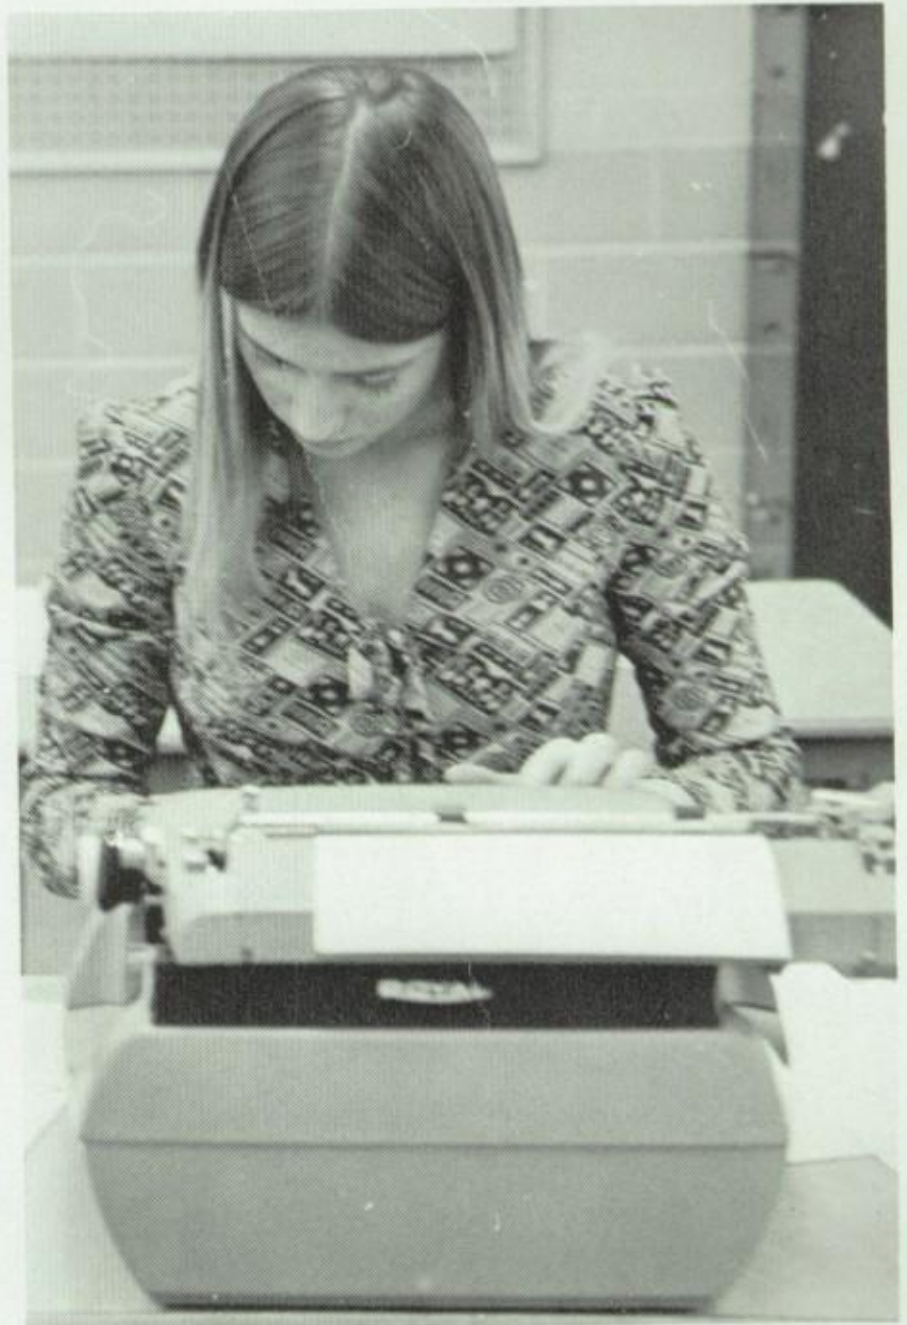

Under the guidance of Miss Margaret Finney, this year's Panorama staff had a successful year. Every two weeks the paper was published and sold for fifteen cents.

The Panorama keeps students aware of school news and upcoming events.

Managing editor Cathy Hubler and the rest of the staff kept active preparing layouts and writing stories. This combined effort made the Panorama a superb paper.

Feature editor Becky Smith knows the value of proofreading.

With intense concentration, Terry Lajzer types an editorial.

Junior college club aids juniors in choosing 'right' college

Junior College Club members inquire about the selection procedures of Ohio colleges.

The Junior College Club introduces college-bound juniors to college selection procedures. During the year, members heard several speakers and saw films of various colleges in Ohio.

The club visited Capitol University and Ohio State in the spring. Mr. Elder is the advisor.

Fun-loving juniors take time out from work to laugh a little.

Officers decide on colleges worth visiting for the field trip.

Art club promotes individuality and creativity

Beautiful Christmas design shows exceptional talent of artist Rodney Hines.

Working at a loom can be a tedious job, according to Becky Beverage.

Students interested in art had the opportunity to display their creative talents in Art Club. Members showed their individuality and enthusiasm in each portrait or sculpture created.

As Christmas approached, the Art Club, with Mrs. Hite as advisor, became busy decorating the cafeteria windows. Wise men, wreaths, Santa Clauses, and the Christ child were depicted beautifully in bright and cheerful colors. Also during the Christmas season, the Art Club made and sold objects such as paper maché angels to raise money for glazing materials to be used in art classes.

Latin and spanish clubs help students learn foreign customs

Sue Proctor and Sue Sagaskey sell Mr. Plank a tasty treat at the Spanish bakesale.

Getting familiar with foreign customs is the purpose of the Latin and Spanish clubs. Mrs. Speck, Latin advisor, and Mrs. Rosser, Spanish advisor, both held monthly meetings.

The Latin club's activities included caroling and a Roman banquet.

The Spanish club made a pinata for Dale-Roy and planned a fiesta with profits going toward a fund to send a student or two to Mexico for summer school.

'72 bands engage in many varied activities:

half-time shows, fudge sales, parades, concerts

The symphonic band performed in several concerts after marching season was finished.

The concert band pleased audiences at the band assembly and other presentations.

Besides the traditional band activities — halftime shows, parades, concerts, contests, bus trips to away games and the annual and unforgettable meal at Chicken Manor — this year's members and directors Richard Johnson and David Ertzinger worked on other projects.

The first of these began in the fall with fudge sales to raise funds for a summer band trip.

For the first time, the band gave an all-school assembly in February.

One of their final activities was the spring concert.

Ahs stage band widens program

Stage band this year introduced several changes. The first was a change in uniforms; their new outfits included black jackets.

Another innovation was the addition of an ensemble made up of band members. This ensemble accompanied them during the year.

Besides their usual performances at basketball games, the stage band gave a program, "The History of Jazz" for a few local clubs and also at a school assembly.

Other activities were playing in the Spring Follies and co-hosting the Jazz Band Festival at Ashland College.

To perfect his part in the Spring Follies, Rob Kinney practices diligently.

Regular rehearsals after school aid in acquiring skill and confidence in playing.

Smiles, practice produce superior sweet sixteen

Members of the Sweet Sixteen await the cue for their part of the half-time show.

This year, as in the past, the eighteen members of the Sweet Sixteen added another dimension to halftime productions during football season. Accompanied by the marching band, they danced before both home and away crowds.

Under the direction of Mrs. Jane Vermilya, the girls also performed their high-kicking routines during halftime at two basketball games.

Co-captains this year were Jo Anne Strine and Jenny Robbins.

Orchestra sends members to regional, state groups

The orchestra works on a very difficult passage for a concert as Mr. Thomas directs.

This year's orchestra was involved in a variety of activities. Although there was no musical, the orchestra gave their usual winter and spring concerts.

They also formed quintets which visited third and fourth grade classrooms in the elementary schools. These small groups gave demonstrations to acquaint the children with the different members of the string family.

Other activities included Regional Orchestra and All-State which Beth Carson attended.

Jerry Ferguson was concert master; Mr. James Thomas was director.

In the French horn section, Ann Denbow and Karen Ford add to the harmony.

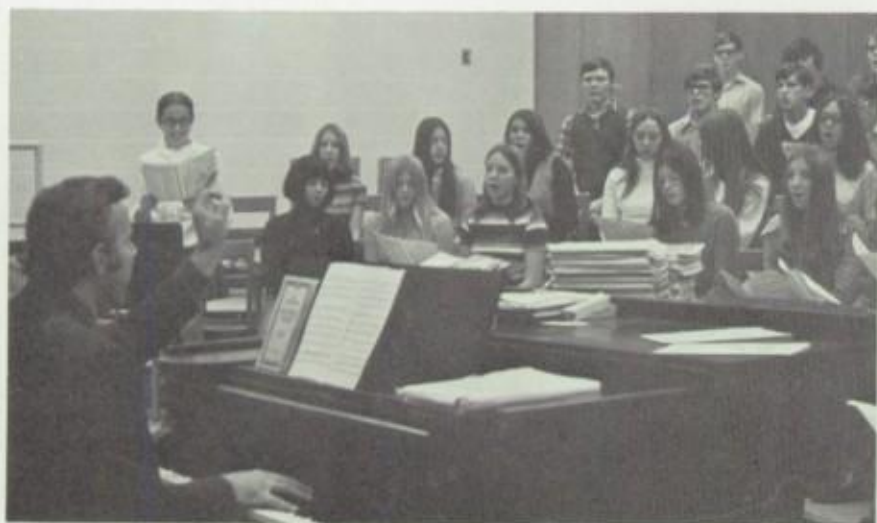

Soph choir expresses itself in popular song

Intense concentration is mirrored on all faces during a morning choir session.

Participation in the May Fiesta was the major project of this year's Sophomore Choir, a mixed choral group composed solely of sophomores. This group also participated in the Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies, caroling, the winter concert, and an assembly at Montgomery school.

Since music is a non-academic subject, we are especially proud of the members of this choir for taking the time and effort to practice and reward its listeners with the beautiful sound of voices in perfectly blending harmony.

As Nancy Ronk rehearses a solo for the Thanksgiving assembly, Mr. Hurst shows his approval.

A cappella choir's music thrills audiences

Many hours of hard work and long rehearsals go into the making of a Christmas album.

Highly talented singers dedicated to the enjoyment of choral music, both classical and contemporary — this is the A Cappella Choir.

Directed by Mr. Hurst and student director Lance Ferguson, this fine group is known throughout Ohio as an excellent high school choir.

Among the planned activities for this year were a Christmas concert, recording a Christmas album, assemblies for community service clubs, participation in the Choral Festival at Orville, Sping Tour to Chicago, and the May Fiesta.

Choir smooths out a rough spot during combined rehearsal.

A break between songs provides time to talk and joke around.

Talented girls' glee club has unique sound

Section rehearsals are necessary in order to ensure a polished performance.

Under the direction of Mr. Clifford Hurst, this all-girl group, composed of sophomore, junior, and senior girls, showed great improvement during the year. The Girls' Glee delighted audiences in the Thanksgiving assembly, Christmas and winter concerts, caroling, the Osborn school assembly, and the May Fiesta.

These girls, with student director Laurie Arnold, consistently did their best in high hopes of becoming members of the A Cappella Choir next year.

Couples move to rock music at the Homecoming dance held Saturday night in the lobby.

It seems the rain kept few students from attending this year's exciting Homecoming festivities. Homecoming '71 was an especially memorable event for five lucky girls: Laurie Arnold, Jane Patterson, Debbie Smith, Sally Ward, and Tootie Zehner. Tootie Zehner, who was crowned queen, reigned over the Arrows' win against Wooster.

The Homecoming weekend ended with the annual dance. Queen Tootie attended the dance with her escort, Chip Roston, who earned the title of Honored Senior Football Player. The theme of the dance was "Cinderella."

Couples mingle in a Dogpatch setting at the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance.

The annual Sadie Hawkins Dance, sponsored by the AHS Student Council, was held on November 12 from 8:00 to 11:00 in the lobby.

The cost was $2.00 per couple, (paid by the girls), and music was provided by the Estes Brothers. Mr. McClintock was "Marryin' Sam." Jeff Burnett had the best corsage, made by Arlynn Denbow.

Dave Reep and Lynn Imhoff watch the orange pass in amazement.

Daisy Mae explains the art of square dancing to Abner.

Volleyball was one of the biggest attractions for girls and guys at the party.

Christmas party new ahs event

This year, by popular demand, the Student Council sponsored a Christmas Party instead of the traditional Christmas Dance, inviting all AHS students. For a dollar a person, students could play basketball and volleyball in the gym, watch silent movies in the Little Theater, or dance to rock by the Cain.

Reaction by participants was favorable, and it is likely that the idea will stick in upcoming years.

Active students find basketball to be their kind of sport.

The rock group Cain provided enjoyable entertainment.

Besides sponsoring several movies and plays (Anne Frank, and a trio of mysteries; The Monkey's Paw, The Lottery, and Sorry, Wrong Number), this year the Thespian-Drama Club attended Fiddler on the Roof and ended the year with a banquet in Belleville, Ohio.

At one of the final assemblies awards were given for Best Actress, Barb Leedy; Best Actor, Tom West; Best Backstage Girl, Molly Connor; and Best Backstage Boy, Keith Nagy.

Officers were: president, Tom West; vice-president, Bob Spore; secretary, Molly Connor; and treasurer, Bonnie Thomas.

Mrs. Paul Schmandt was advisor.

'Follies marx the spot' is spring follies' theme

The stage band goes over "Be-Bop" one more time before the first performance.

Between acts, emcees Joe Strine, Jeff Jones, Tom West, and Bob Spore entertain.

A follies tradition, the Senior Boys' Chorus Line, performs to "The Stripper."

This year's Spring Follies — "Follies Marx the Spot" — was based on the Marx Brothers. As Zeppo, Groucho, Chico, and Harpo, Bob Spore, Tom West, Joe Strine and Jeff Jones performed typical Marx antics between acts. The annual talent show included The Norman Blabernacle Choir — a group that sang through glasses of water, a routine on the uneven parallel bars by Tonya Hillegas, and a skit entitled "Homer and Maud" which featured Rosetta Brown and Rhonda Hoover.

Musical numbers were by Cindy Armstrong, Becky Rose and Company, and the Stage Band.

Dancing acts were by the chorus lines: junior girls', senior girls', and senior boys'.

Student directors were Diane Barr, Becky Rose, and Gail Price. Director was Tom Kauffman.

Sisters Carol and JoAnn Strine sing a medley during their act.

As Harpo Marx, the mute brother, Jeff Jones starts off on a mad chase.

'Fiesta — take seven' shows pathway to stardom

Stan Stine and Liz Sauder are married in the romantic "Love Story" sequence.

The Girls' Glee, in costumes of different eras, charms Mr. Deville (Stan Stine).

The Sophomore Choir has a dress rehearsal for the Atlantic City sequence.

This year the first half of May Fiesta followed Stan Stine (Cecil Gee Deville) and Liz Sauder (Molly Maiden) from their director-secretary relationship to marriage.

They were helped along by the Sophomore Choir in Atlantic City, the Girls' Glee at their first auditions, and the Boys' Choir giving their version of Mary Poppins.

The final scene before intermission was "Love Story" featuring a ballet solo by Kathy Rose.

Second half was entirely the Senior Choir; dancing, singing, and just having a good time.

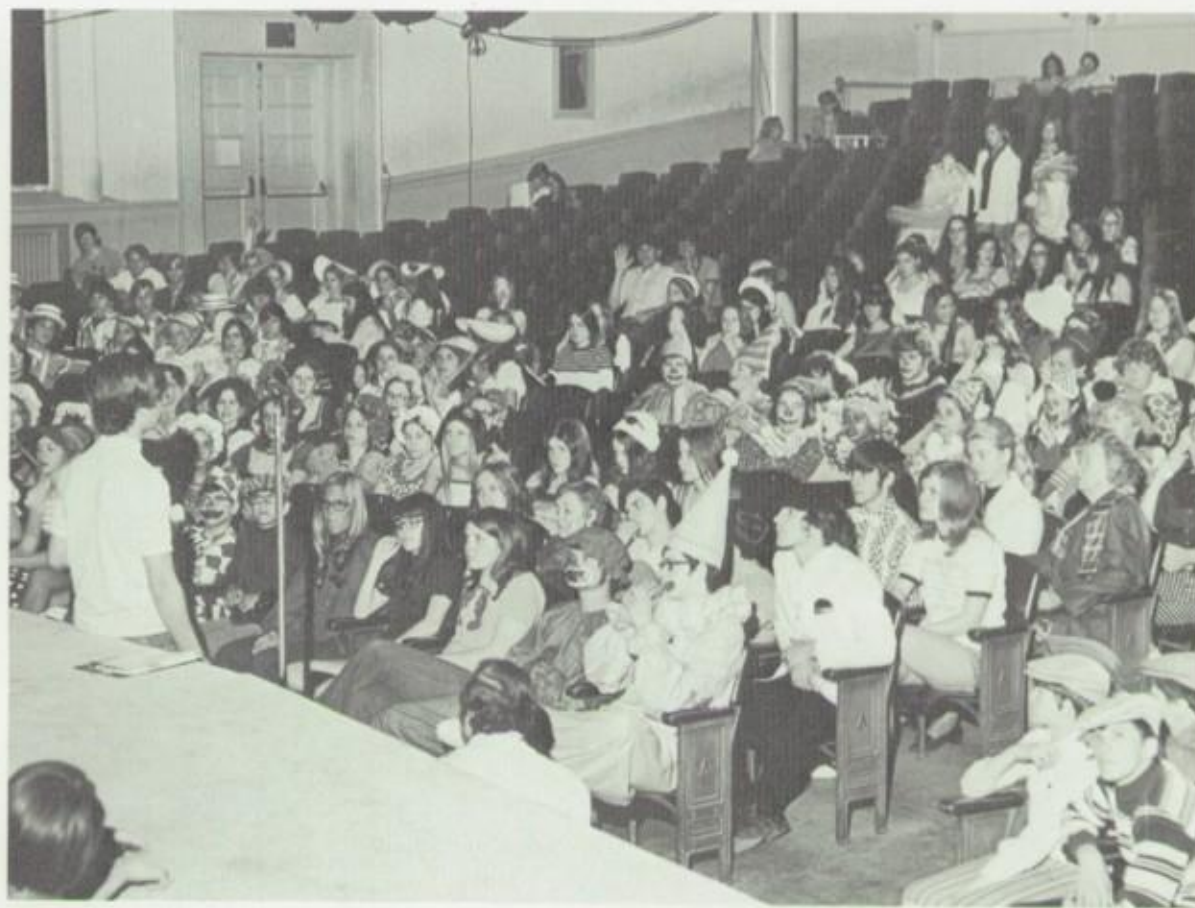

The Finale, "The Sound of Music" joined the complete cast and ended in the traditional Senior Farewell.

Cary Usher and Eric Carr were favorites of the audience.

The talented dancing choir performs during the second half of Fiesta.

The entire cast gathers for a final pep talk by student director Mark Duffey.

"Sixteen Going on Seventeen" is sung by Toni Gardner and Lance Ferguson.

Directed by Mr. Hurst, the Senior Choir sings in the second half of the program.

Chip Roston plays a familiar trombone solo, "Rainy Days and Mondays."

A medley of "happy songs" is performed by an ensemble from the Senior Choir.

'Winter wonderland' is theme of tri-hi-y formal

Behind crepe paper decorations, attending couples engage in quiet conversation.

Between dances, Margie Johnson and Bob Bourbonnais stop to sip refreshing punch and chat with servers Chris Rodgers and LouAnn Picking.

"Winter Wonderland" was the theme of this year's Tri-Hi-Y Formal. This dance, to which girls traditionally ask boys, was sponsored by all three Tri-Hi-Y's. For finding the mistakes in one of the murals, Liz Sauder and Curt Schussler won a certificate to Snow Trails.

The annual formal was on Saturday, February 19. Music was provided by the Eddie Robbins Quintet.

Senior tri-hi-y works together to make final year successful

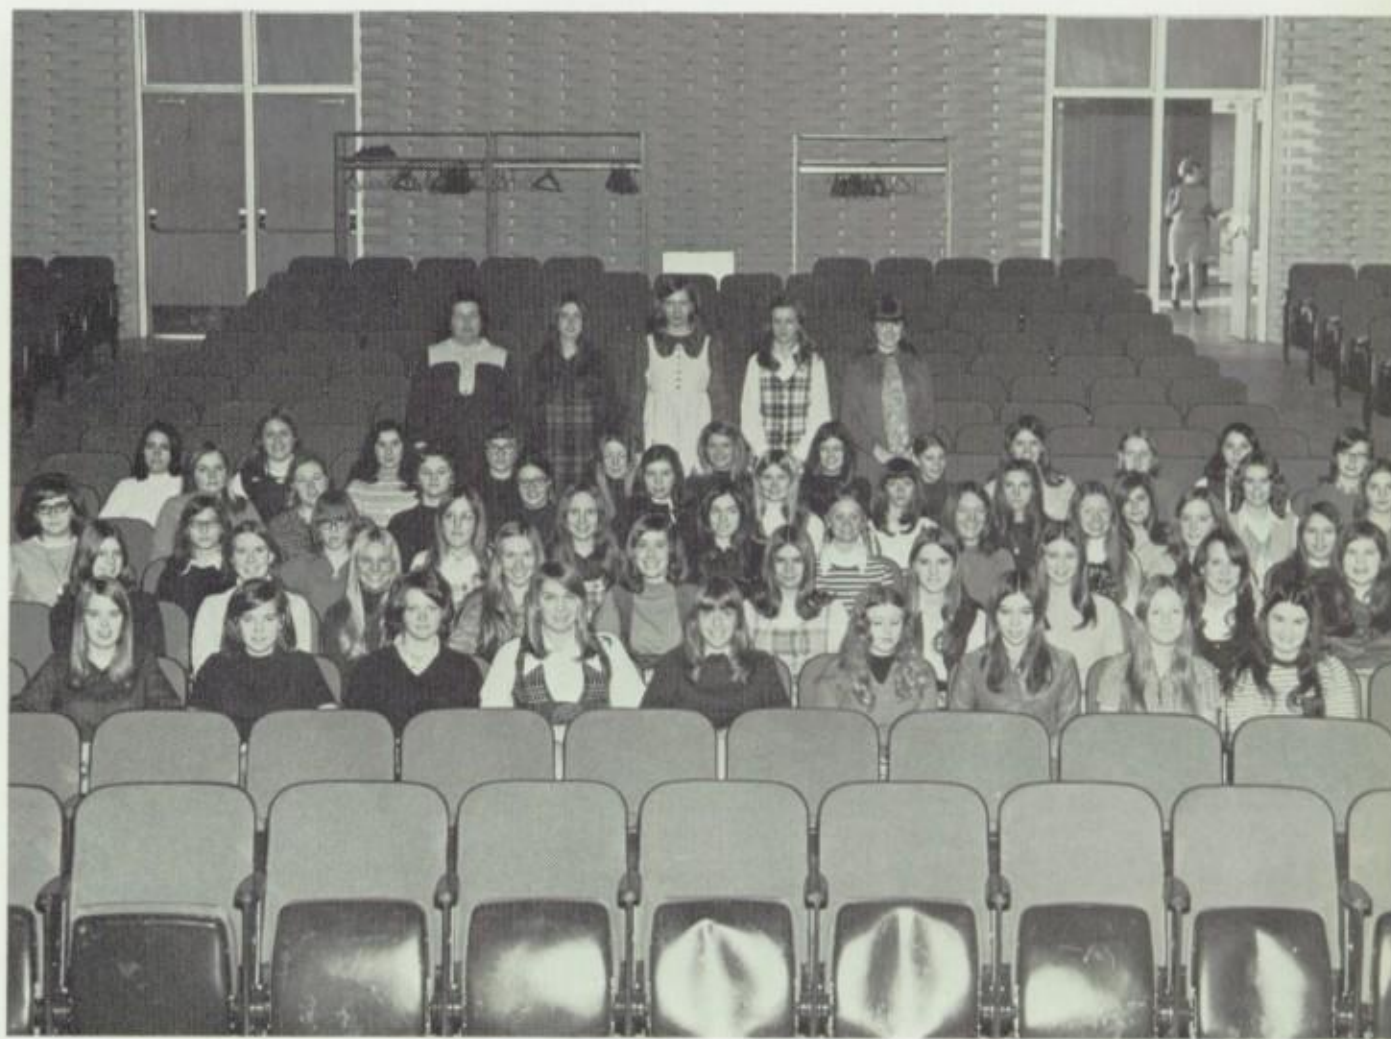

Astrid DeVisser, foreign exchange student, speaks about Holland at a meeting.

The Senior Tri-Hi-Y, whose purpose is to "create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community, high standards of Christian living," has been very active this year.

The members sponsored a school Thanksgiving assembly at which the Girls' Glee and Sophomore Choir sang. They were also in charge of the annual formal, the biggest event of the year, with its theme "Winter Wonderland." The club officers also planned a fashion show with Tri-Hi-Y members modeling various outfits for the club.

Jr. tri-hi-y has fun year

For girls participating in the Junior Tri-Hi-Y it was a busy and active year.

The girls conducted the Christmas Assembly and played in the annual Powder Puff Football Game. Some of the other activities were a float for the Christmas parade, several fund raising projects, and helping plan for the Formal.

The Junior Tri-Hi-Y is advised by Mrs. Yoss.

Sophomores work together in tri-hi-y activities during the year

Members discuss ideas for planning future activities during a meeting.

In the business part of a spring meeting, sophomores vote on a newly presented idea.

Tri-Hi-Y, a service club for girls, strives to maintain high standards of Christian character.

During the year, the newly-formed Sophomore Tri-Hi-Y, advised by Mrs. Weiss, went Christmas caroling at the Good Shepherd Home, helped with the Tri-Hi-Y formal, and had a bake sale to raise money.

Meetings ranged from business to involving speakers such as Astrid DeVisser, who spoke about Holland.

Officers this year were Val Valentine, president; Becky Kerr, vice-president; Cherie Marchio, secretary; Debbie Kruty, treasurer; and Patty Abrams, chaplain.

Debbie Kruty and Ellen Schlingman check over plans for an upcoming bake sale.

Junior class sponsors play strange bedfellows

Bonnie Thomas (Julia Cromwell) also helps out backstage as she applies make up to Britt Troth (Mr. Pemberton).

An enraged Senator Cromwell returns from a suffragette convention.

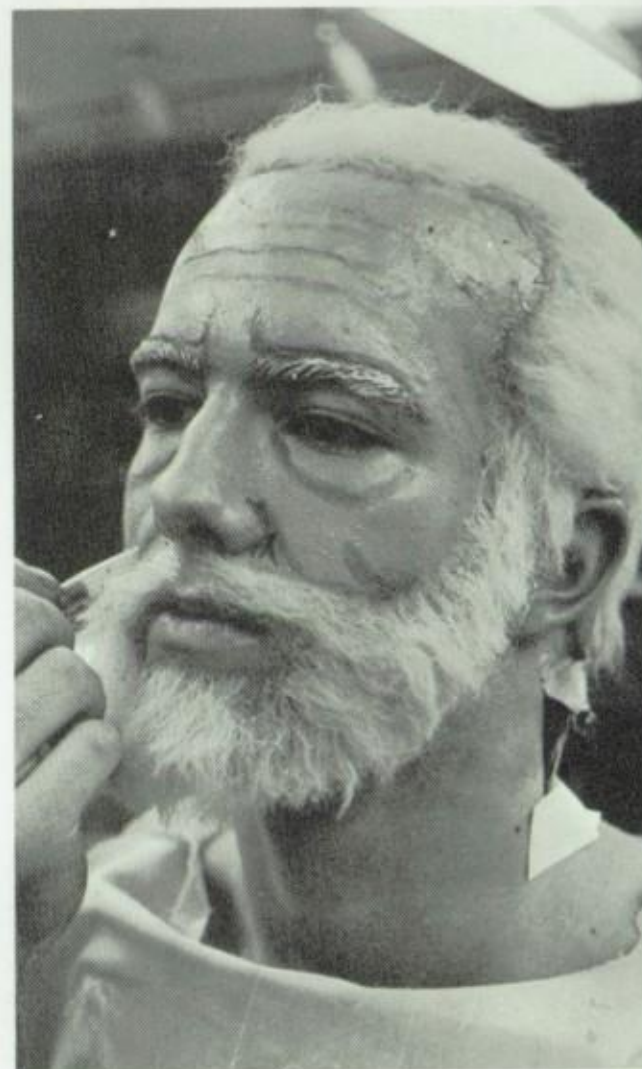

The annual junior class play this year was Strange Bedfellows, a comedy examining one of the earliest fights for women's lib and its effect on the suffragettes and their husbands.

Clarissa Blynn Cromwell, a strong advocate of the vote for women, was played by JoAnne Strine. Her husband, Matt Cromwell, was Lance Ferguson. Bob Spore played the part of Senator Cromwell with Bonnie Thomas as his wife, Julia. One of the most colorful characters was Tillie Sparker, portrayed by Gretta Brubaker.

The play was directed by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schmandt, and student director was Eric Alderfer.

To an impressed audience, (Bonnie Thomas, JoAnne Strine, and Toni Gardner), Mayor Tibbett, (Mickey Bingham), tells about "the fish that got away."

Before performance, Bob Spore (Senator Cromwell) gets a final touch-up.

Students prepare for careers in education

The combined FTA-Delta Kappa Gamma meeting lets students and teachers compare ideas.

Future Teachers of America, a club for those students planning on becoming teachers, is one of the most active clubs at AHS.

Major activities this year included acting as guides at the PTA Open House, a Christmas party for a needy family, sponsoring two dances to earn money, micro-teaching at Ashland College, and bundle days.

FTA members gained teaching experience by tutoring students needing extra help in troublesome subjects.

Meetings range from strictly business to interesting speakers.

Officers are busy conducting meetings and arranging programs.

Cookies are for eating, proven by G. Brubaker and S. Olin at an FTA bake sale.

Members learn and have fun

Future Homemakers of America, with advisor Mrs. West, is a club for girls who have had at least one year of home ec. Some of the activities of this year's FHA were a tour of the Ashland College Historical Center, a come-as-you-are party, a tour of Archway, and the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet in May. The group also sent money to the Children's Home.

Future Farmers of America, advised by Mr. Lifer and Mr. Dillgard, touches all phases of American agriculture — from agribusiness to natural resource development. Activities this year were State and Nat. Conventions, Parliamentary Procedure and State Judging contests, State FFA Camp, exhibits at Ashland Co., Loudenville, and Ohio State fairs.

Advisor and members Cindy Carver and Bille Jo Wilt examine dresses of various periods.

FFA members Kathy Heimberger and Ron Barnes work to wrap mums.

Deca and vica prepare students for business

DECA students Dennis Tyson and Roger Martin sell shirts during the noon hours.

VICA students participated in several contests. In one of these Elison Baker got a fourth. VICA is advised by Mr. Alexander.

DECA students also had an exciting year with Becky Weiler district runner-up in the Miss Ohio DECA contest. Jim Sheets got a first in Parliamentary Law in the state contest and will go on to the Nationals. Final activities included a banquet, canoe trip, and a volleyball game. Mr. Shaver is the advisor.

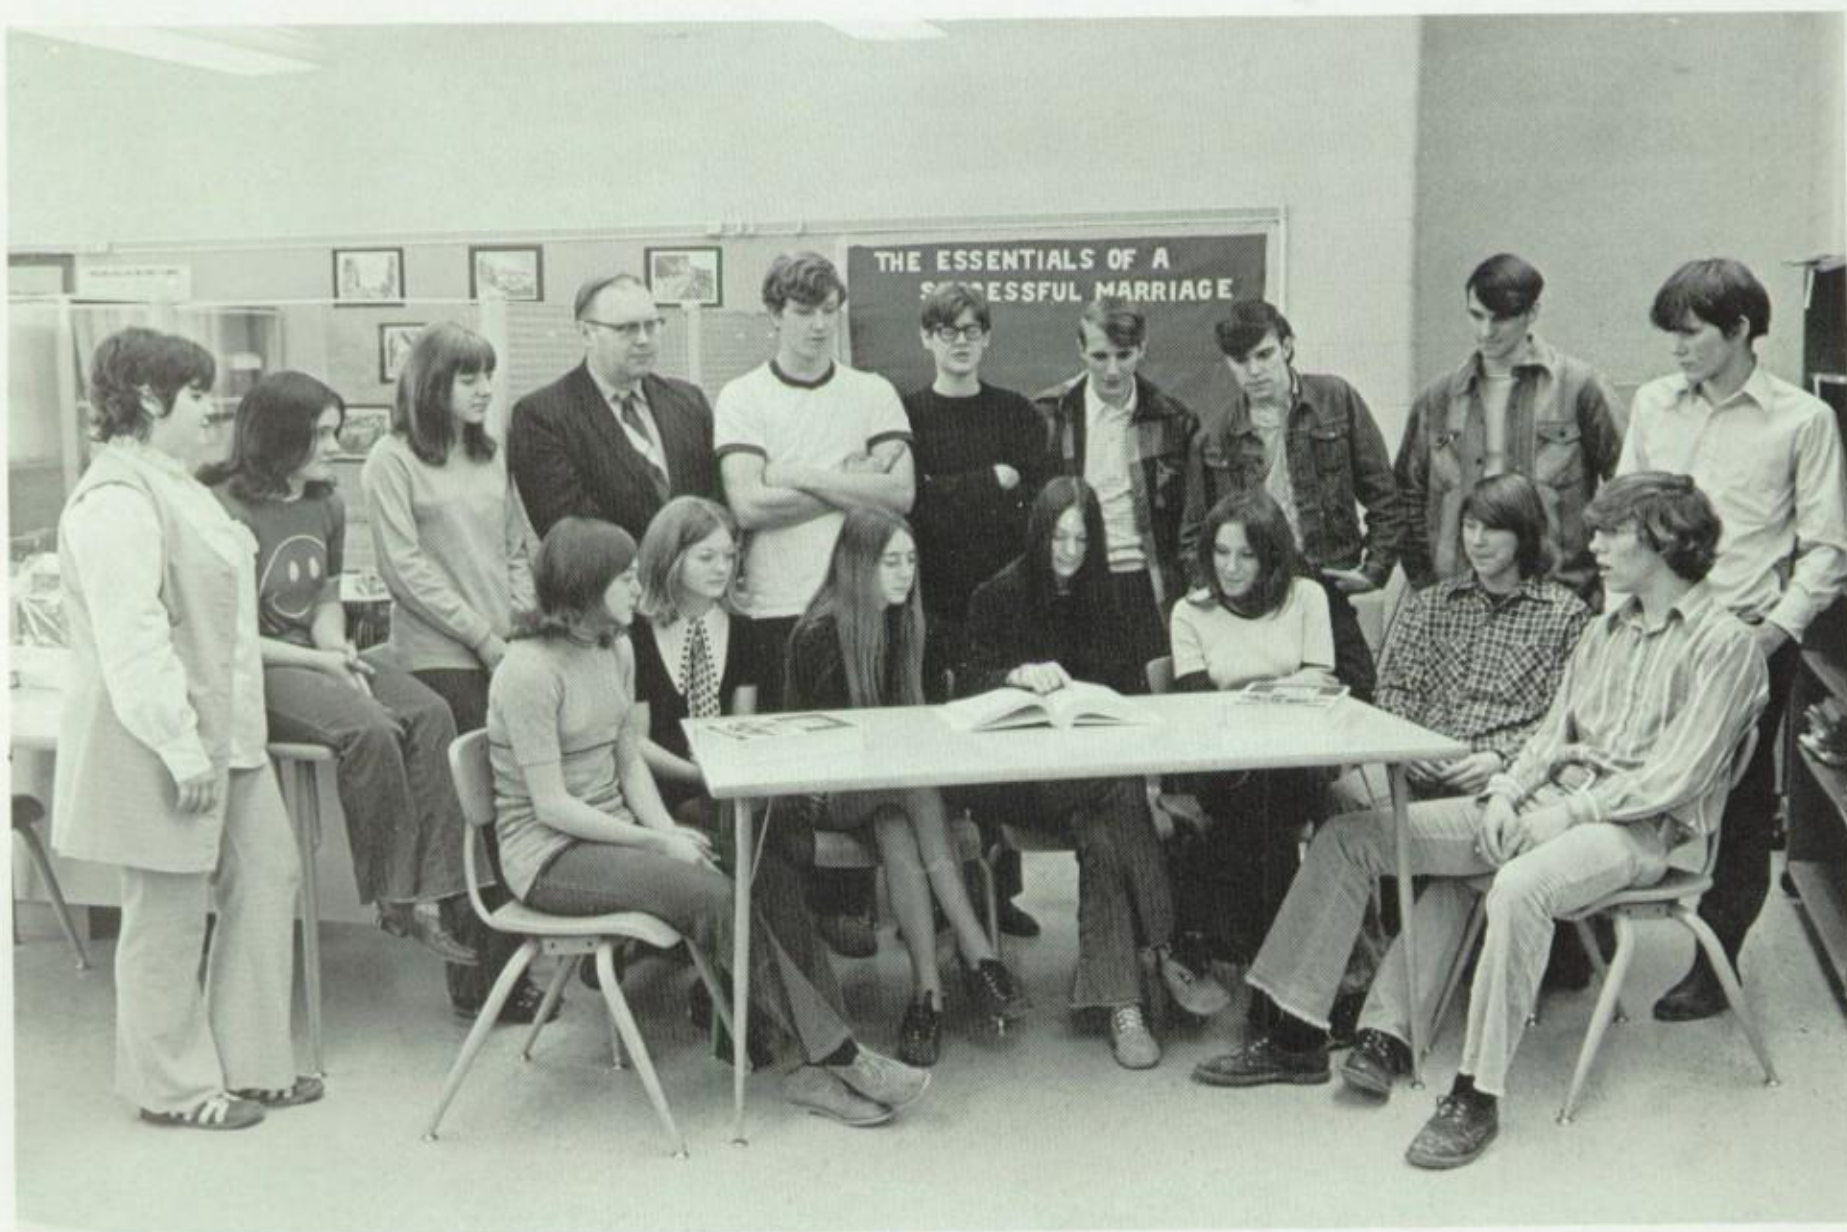

Eager members of track'n co. and oe assist by working

The Ashland Track 'n Co. is a girls' service organization formed to officiate home track meets. This year, the club also helped at cross country and swim meets. Mr. and Mrs. David Smalley and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Diercks are advisors.

Occupational Explorers, from the class OWE, is an organization set up to develop a life-style that will help its members to adjust and meet the challenges of life. Mr. Richard Holmes, advisor, helped '71-'72 members organize activities and find jobs.

Keeping time at track meets is one of the jobs of Track'n Co., girls' service club.

Several ambitious students look over a book on careers and jobs as Mr. Richard Holmes, advisor of the club, and others watch.

IOE and COE teach skills

This year's new vocational class, Intensive Office Education, is for junior girls interested in clerical or stenographic work. IOE meets daily for three hours and is taught by Mrs. Nagy and Mrs. Miller.

Cooperative Education trains girls in office skills and provides part-time work for the students. It is taught by Mrs. Pendleton.

The morning IOE class is for junior girls interested in secretarial careers.

Cheerleaders receive help from Varsity A at a pep rally during basketball season.

Varsity a is asset to ahs

The Varsity A Club had a very active year. They participated in several fund raising projects for Sam Marchio, which included selling tickets for the holiday tournament and setting up for the card party.

They also had tug-o-wars at home basketball games, sold varsity shirts, and supervised in the cafeteria at lunch.

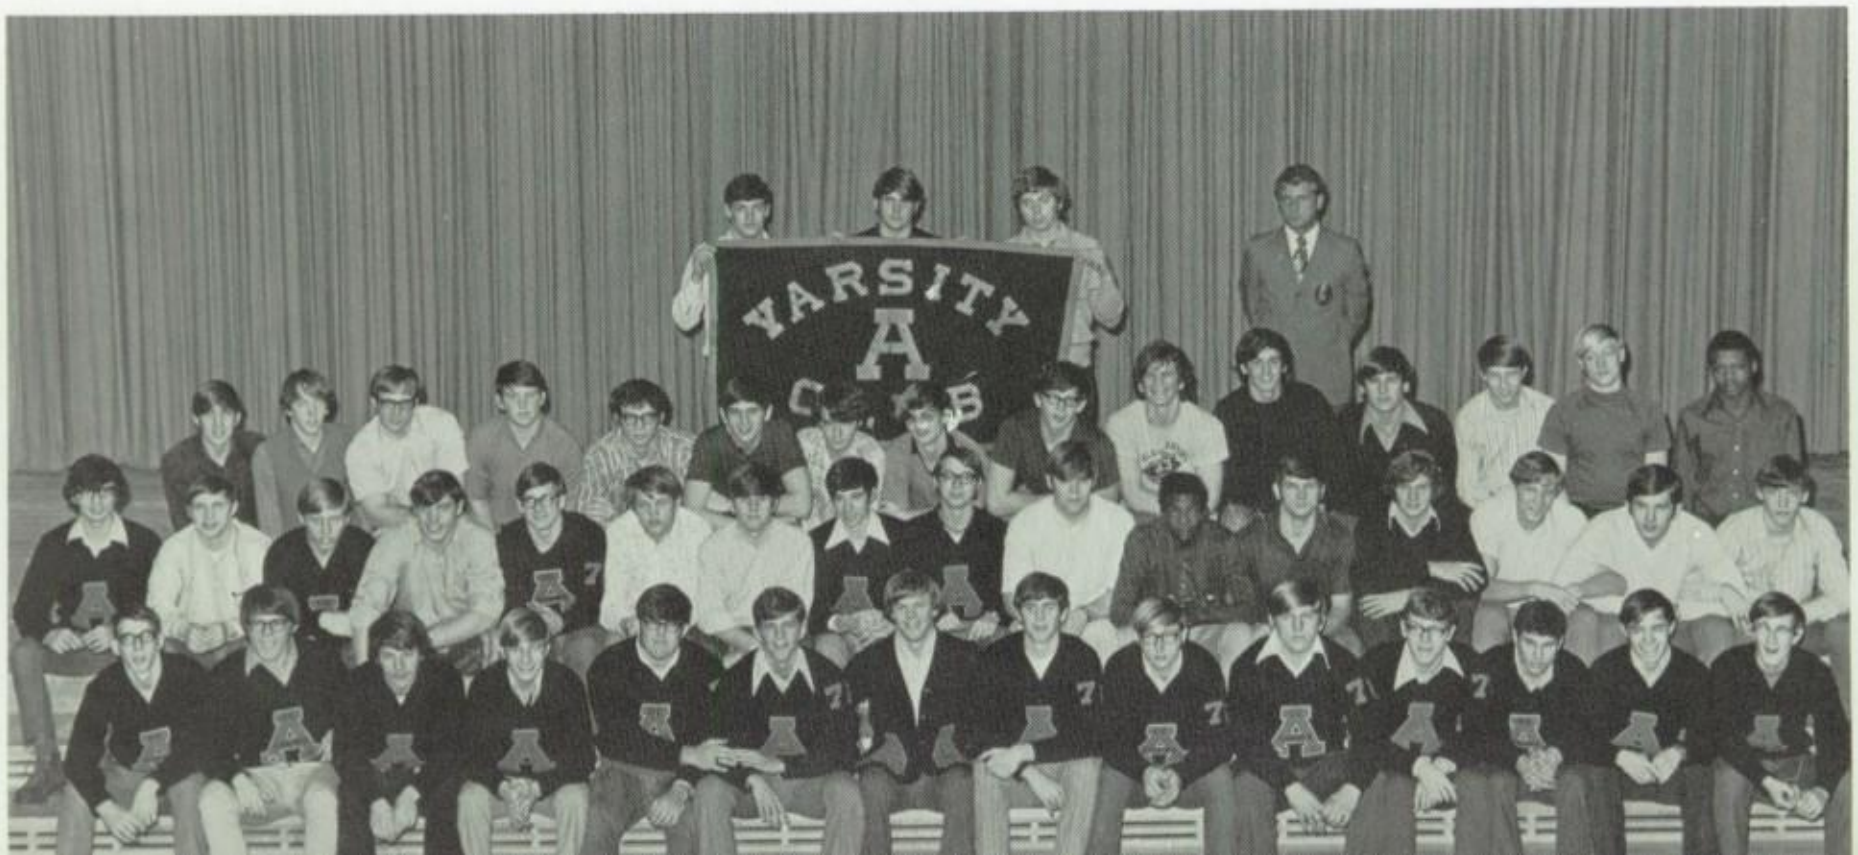

The Varsity A Club is advised by Mr. Vild.

Gac enables girls to test skills at various sports offered

The Girls' Athletic Club makes it possible for girls to participate in sports such as soccer, bowling, volleyball, basketball, softball, and minor sports.

This year, thirty-five points were awarded to those who met attendance requirements and fifteen points to those chosen for an All-Star team.

Two main meetings, initiation night, and the All-Star banquet were the main events of the year.

Mrs. Seaboyer and Mrs. Stauffer are the advisors.

Top students receive honors for academics

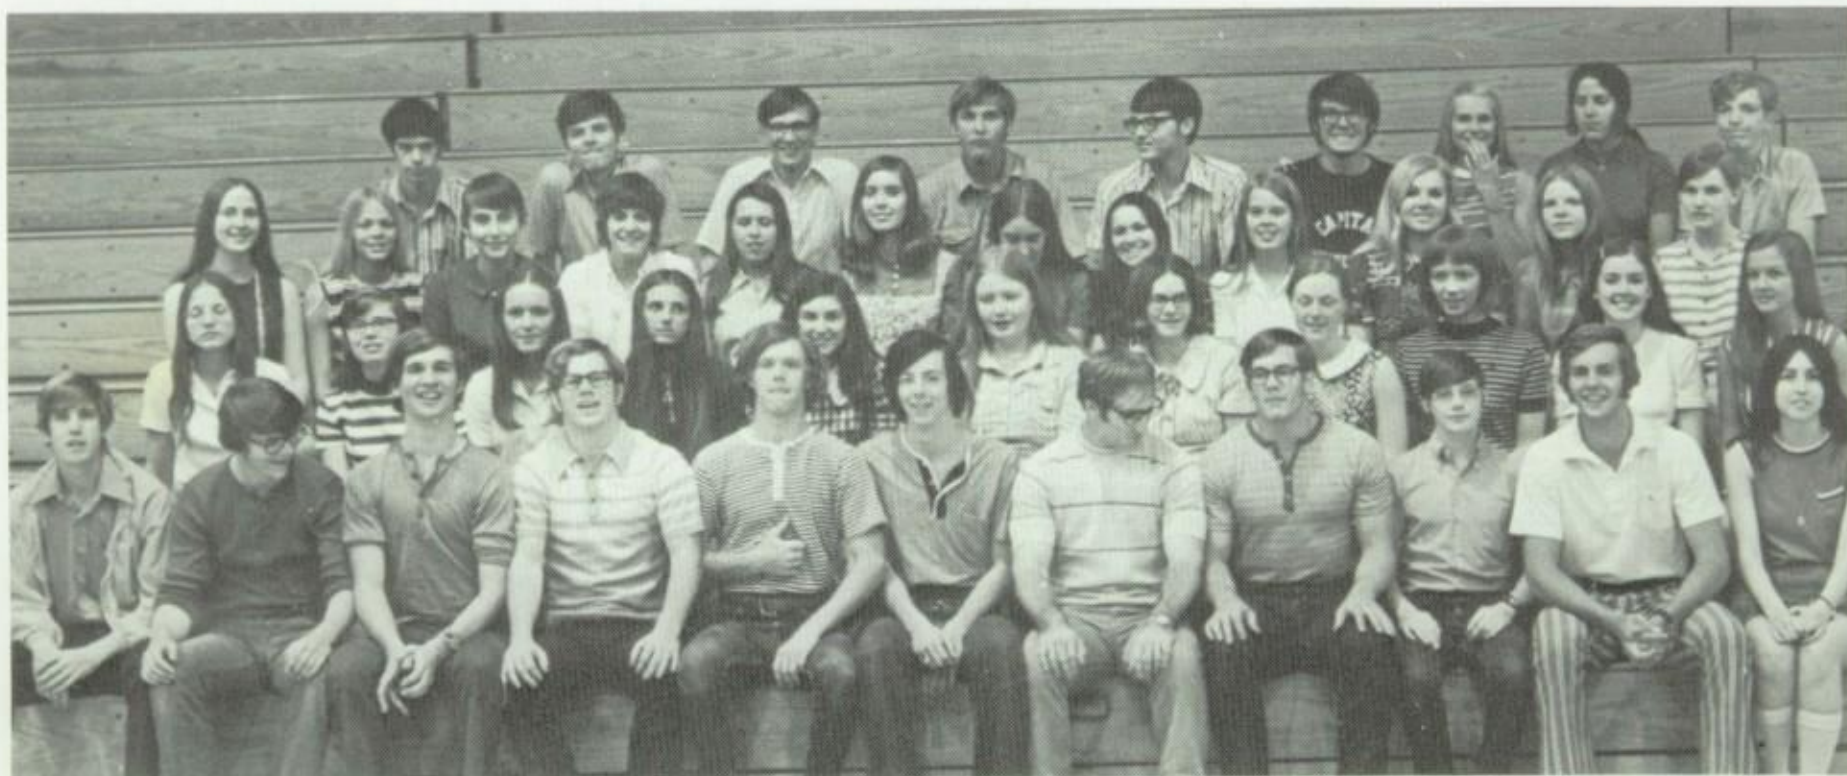

Academic Challenge team members are T. West, L. Ferguson, K. Strait. Alternates are R. Reader and H. Wetzel.

During the year many students were honored for their high scholastic achievements.

Those in the National Honor Society, the Society of Outstanding American High School Students, Boys' and Girls' States, the valedictorian, (Connie Brodbeck), the salutatorian, (Lucy Hawk), and many others worked hard throughout the years to get where they are, and deserve the recognition they have received.

Student council works for betterment of ahs

Students listen to nominations for Student Council president and vice-president.

Student Council, advised by Mr. Kauffman, headed many school projects during the year.

Major projects included Homecoming Dance, Sadie Hawkins Dance, and Spring Follies.

On Halloween the Council went trick-or-treating for GI's. The candy collected was boxed and sent to Vietnam.

Money-making projects were glass recycling, headed by Jeff Burnett, a bicycle marathon, and the sale of student air fare cards.

For all involved it was a busy year.

recognized at new and traditional assemblies

A solemn-faced flag bearer adds to the dignity of the senior Farewell.

This year several new assemblies were introduced along with the traditional ones. These included an assembly for both the stage band and concert band. The stage band took students and faculty back to the beginning of jazz. It played typical blues music.

In the band assembly some traditional marches were played along with the Ashland High pep song.

Spring and winter sport assemblies were held in which all participants in various sports were recognized.

Among other assemblies were a special assembly for Mr. Marchio, the mock convention, and the Senior Farewell.

prom, 'island in the universe,' successful

Anxious couples wait in line to register before entering the gym for the Grand March.

This year's junior class worked very hard in preparing a special prom for the seniors. Paper drives, light bulb sales, and computer card drives supported the prom.

Juniors who were active in these projects were picked for the decorating committees. These groups decided on the prom theme which was "Island in the Universe."

Craters, moon rocks, and a cheese house were a few of the many attractions.

During the Grand March couples passed through a space ship which was one of the highlights of the night.

Valedictorian Connie Brodbeck gets deserved congratulations from Mr. Ramage.

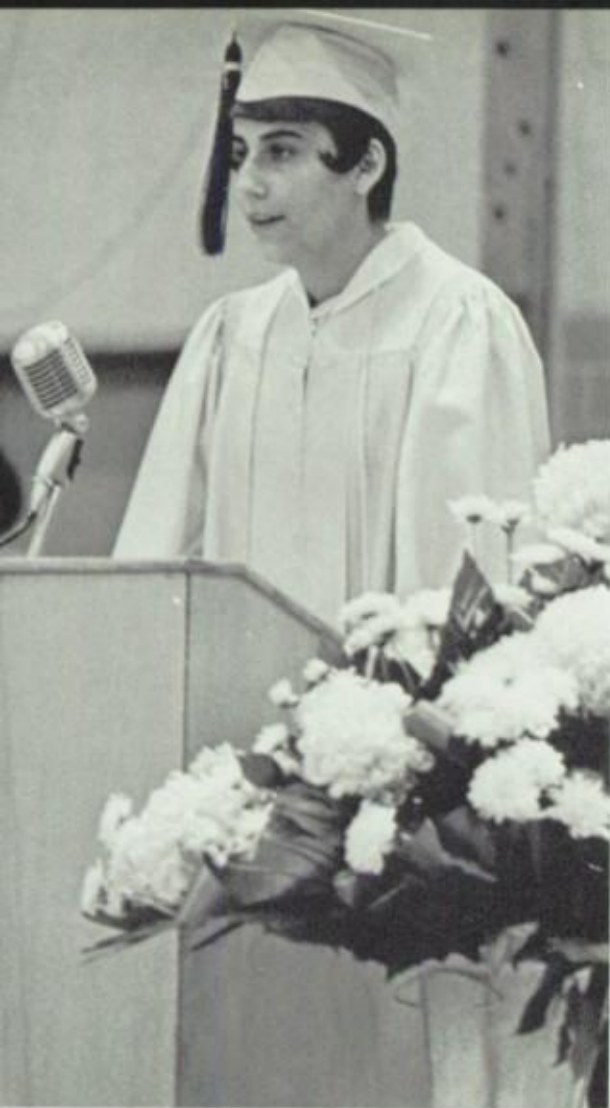

Announcements . . . name cards . . . caps and gowns . . . tears . . . laughter . . . good-bys . . .

Graduation is a time of opposites, a time for looking back over the fun-filled years with a sense of sadness for having to leave friends, a time for looking forward with anxious eagerness toward the unknown, a time for doubt about leaving the security of parents and friends, and yet longing for the independence to become an adult, a time for needing to be belong and yet wanting to be an individual.

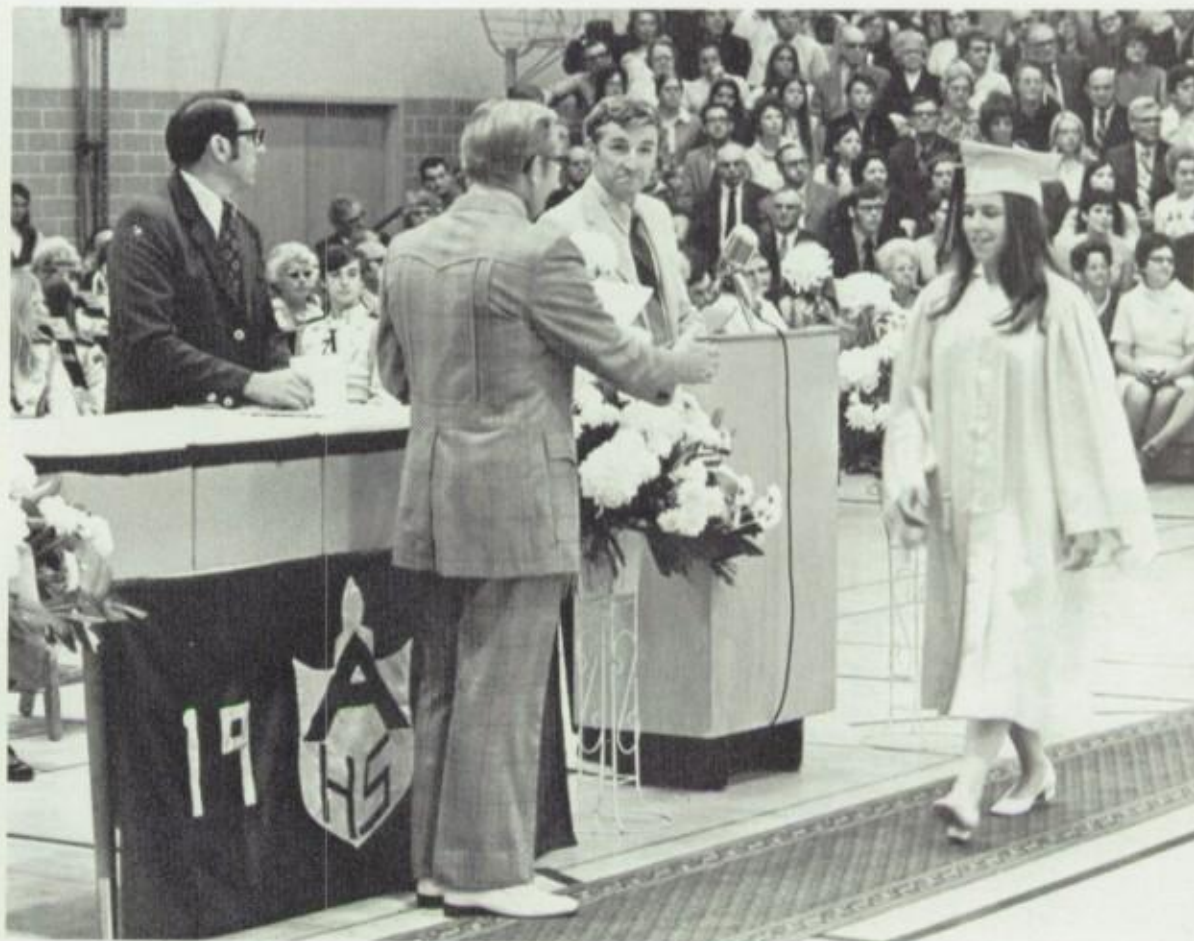

As students went forward to accept their long-awaited diplomas, many thoughts entered the minds of onlookers as well as participants — what will this class of 1972 make of itself? In all probability, these eager, idealistic young people will be aware of the world around them and the problems facing them. Perhaps, because of their idealism, they will solve many of society's problems.

We wish the graduating class of 1972 good luck in whatever they undertake.

"The journey of a thousand miles begins with one step."
It is up to the individual to take that initial step.
And the voyage he must embark upon alone.

SAM MARCHIO (1928-1972)

Assistant principal and athletic director at AHS, Mr. Marchio taught here from 1961-70, serving in such positions as drivers' ed. teacher, vocational instructor, and head basketball coach. Outside of school, his activities were numerous. Surely, he will be remembered for his contributions to the school and surrounding community.

However, his vibrant character along with his sincerity and unwavering courage will inspire more lasting memories. For him, no challenge was too great; he refused to give up.

Sam Marchio was a unique individual, a "different drummer," who did all he could, not for himself, but for those around him. We of AHS honor and remember him for what he accomplished, what he was, and all that he meant to us.
